

Billy's Family Bereavement

Let your child share
their loss here, too

written & illustrated by Jacqui Currin-McDowell

SAMPLE

When Billy got up this morning,
things were different, not normal.

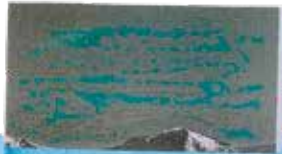

Lots of people were visiting,
they were sad and some were crying.

What had happened?

Billy's nana had died.
She had passed away.

Just like the leaves on the big green tree
when they turn brown, they are done
they have died and flutter to the ground.

Everyone and every living thing,
in the whole wide world,
has its time, and then is done.

Some are here for just a little while,
and some are here for a long, long time.